

Simplifying Regulatory Compliance for Life Sciences

Helping Bring New Medicines to the Market Faster and Safer

At EXTEDO, we take pride in being the bridge between regulatory agencies and the life sciences industry. Operating in a highly regulated and constantly evolving global environment, we support our customers in meeting regulatory requirements such as IDMP (Identification of Medicinal Products), eCTD (electronic Common Technical Document), and ePI (electronic Product Information). Our innovative end-to-end software solutions and expert consulting services ensure compliance with these complex and dynamic regulations, saving our industry and agency customers time, reducing costs, and minimizing errors.

Who We Are

Founded in 1996, EXTEDO has become a leading provider of Regulatory, Quality and Safety Information Management solutions in the life sciences sector. Our mission is to enable organizations and regulatory authorities to achieve effortless compliance. Over 35 regulatory authorities and around 1,000 clients in 65 countries trust us to optimize their business processes and ensure regulatory compliance.

What truly defines EXTEDO is the people behind our solutions. With more than 120 employees representing over 20 nationalities, EXTEDO brings together experts and innovators who are passionate about making regulatory processes easier, smarter, and more connected. Our offices in Germany, Croatia and the USA reflect our global presence and enable us to support customers around the world.

Across functions, backgrounds and locations, our employees share a collaborative mindset and a strong commitment to helping customers succeed in an increasingly complex regulatory environment.

Since 2025, EXTEDO has been part of corneo, a Bertelsmann company, allowing us to expand the scope of our offerings through collaboration with other corneo brands like Docuvera, Rote Liste and medicines.ie. This partnership

What We Do

With EXTEDOpulse, our end-to-end solution suite, customers can create, manage, validate, submit and review regulatory information across the full medicinal product lifecycle. Our modular hubs support master data, registrations, documents and content, submissions, quality processes and pharmacovigilance for both industry and agencies. Automation and AI-supported functionalities across EXTEDOpulse help improve data quality, reduce manual effort, and accelerate regulatory processes. Together with the other corneo brands, we deliver a seamless end-to-end approach – a Smart Information Lifecycle – that supports our customers' needs today while helping them to prepare for the complex regulatory developments of tomorrow.

Trusted by Regulatory Authorities Worldwide

We're proud to be a technology partner for major health authorities, including the European Medicines Agency (EMA) and over 35 other agencies worldwide. Beyond providing software, we collaborate closely with regulators and actively contribute to international working groups, helping to shape the evolution of regulatory standards and the future of life sciences information management. This close involvement ensures that our customers benefit not only from proven technology and services, but also from forward-looking expertise and deep insight into upcoming regulatory developments.

Reliable Professional Services and Partner Network

Building the right relationships is key to success. Our trusted global partner network combines regulatory expertise and technological know-how to support your projects, from project management to system validation.
